Focus Miami

The current programming on VernissageTV has its focus on the art events during Art Basel Miami Beach and the local art scene in Miami. With the new documentaries, VernissageTV provides valuable insight into Miami's art community and further adds to VernissageTV's analysis of today's art system in general.

Just one week before Art Basel Miami Beach, VernissageTV had the chance to have a look at the new exhibition space of the Rosa and Carlos de la Cruz Collection, located in the Design District in Miami. VernissageTV spoke with the collector Rosa de la Cruz, the German artist Jonathan Meese, and the architect of the new space, John Marquette.

VernissageTV also covered the temporary exhibitions at CIFO (Being in the World, Selections from the Ella Fontanals-Cisneros Collection), and the Rubell Family Collection (Beg Borrow and Steal).

At the Museum of Contemporary Art in North Miami, VernissageTV attended the opening of "The Reach of Realism" and spoke with curator Ruba Katrib and Swiss artist Olaf Breuning. At the Bass Museum of Art in Miami Beach, VernissageTV followed a Chicago-based artist Dzine on a tour through his exhibition and filmed the opening of the group show "Where Do We Go From Here? Selections from La Colección Jumex".

Already in its 5th year, the design fair Design Miami presented the latest in contemporary limited edition design. VernissageTV has impressions from the Collector's Preview and Vernissage, and interviews with the designers Aurel Aebi (Atelier Oi), Maarten Baas (who won Design Miami's Designer of the Year Award, and Greg Lynn (who created an installation for Swarovski Crystal Palace and the HSBC Lounge).

Additional episodes include coverage of exhibitions at Miami-based galleries (Robert Thiele at Dorsch Gallery, Alice Aycock at Frederic Snitzer Gallery), an interview with Miami-based artist collective FriendsWithYou, and the Outdoor Mural Project Wynwood Walls that was produced by Deitch Projects and Goldman Properties. At the Center for Visual Communication, VernissageTV attended the opening of the show "Beyond the Daily Life: Teresa Diehl and Guerra de la Paz", and at Pulse Art Fair Miami G.H. Hovagimyan of the New York-based art group Artists Meeting explained how Artists Meeting's Art Machine works.
