Pittsburgh, PA, October 18, 2006 — Totally overwhelmed and under tremendous stress? Professional Organizer, Patty Kreamer, has developed a six month e-course to help you Make Life Simple...Again. Delivered on-line, this e-course helps the overwhelmed gain control and includes weekly steps and exercises, monthly teleseminars and a members-only Yahoo! Group.

Making Life Simple... Again! (MLSA) is designed for anyone who struggles with overwhelm and low productivity at work and at home. Some of the many topics included in this e-course are:

- § Procrastination
- § Perfectionism
- § Goal setting
- § Household management
- § Life balance
- § The Mail
- § Sentimentalism
- § Financial Organizing

Subscribers are offered practical guidance combined with realistic advice via group and individual interactions that support the long-term habit changes that are necessary to live a simpler and stress free life.

MLSA is available via single subscription or bulk subscriptions for businesses with many employees. Satisfied subscriber, Laurie of www.MissLauriesKitchen.com, says "With a busy home-based business, three small kids and a busy husband, I need to be organized to keep it all together, but I couldn't do it alone. The Making Life Simple...Again program makes you look at why you aren't organized and helps you fix it for the long-term. Patty Kreamer is a phenomenal motivator and when you combine her with the MLSA program and the community of wanna-be organized people she is building for support, reinforcement and accountability, you are bound to be an organized success!"

The results of subscribing to MLSA are many and include less stress, physical and mental clutter, guilt and a boost in confidence and productivity that is shared with family members and business associates.

Patty Kreamer is available for print, on-line, radio and television interviews. Please contact Patty at 412-344-3252 to request an interview.
