In his most recent work "KSP Scripting 1 – Understanding and Developing NI Kontakt Scripts", the composer and author Mike Novy provides a step-by-step explanation of the basics of script programming for the software sampler NI Kontakt 4. Simple wording, an abundance of photo material and examples help bring the user up to speed, enabling him to put his own script ideas into action. "KSP Scripting 1 – Understanding and Developing NI Kontakt Scripts" was recently published by CW Music and will be available in all book stores across the globe from March 2010.

Castlewood Music is a leading, independent organization which brings together freelance composers, academics and writers in a musical, artistic capacity. It incorporates all aspects of production from the music's conceptual design, through digital pre-production to the completion of a piece. Specialized areas include orchestral film scores and the design of special FX sounds for the movie world. The organization also publishes specialist books on music and orchestral work, and gives advice on music-technical issues.
