

A Video showing the First Day of a Foreign Student in Florence

Date: 03-03-2010 10:14 AM CET

Category: Science & Education

Press release from: Scuola Leonardo da Vinci

Every year, many students decide to leave and go abroad for studying a foreign language and know a different culture. With no doubt it is an unmatched experience to try at least once in the life and in recent years, more and more students decide to come to Italy to learn Italian language, so they attend an Italian language course in a school specialized in Italian language teaching to foreign students.

For instance, the Italian language School for foreign students Leonardo da Vinci, with four centers located in Florence, Milan, Rome and Siena, offers many kinds of Italian language courses, in which it is possible to study Italian language and to know Italian culture through many interesting and fun cultural activities.

This school provides students with a high-quality preparation in Italian language and allows them to have fun and make new friends, so that in this way they have the chance to know Italian culture inside out.

Anyway, it is by no means easy for anyone to be in a foreign Country. Once students have planned their travel and booked their favorite Italian language course, they arrive in Italy for the first time, and maybe in the wonderful city of Florence. It is the first day and students first of all wonder where they have to go, how to move, how to find an accommodation and to whom they have to ask information about the school, the lessons and the courses.

And this is the starting point of an amazing video created by Scuola Leonardo da Vinci: an interesting and interactive video dedicated to the first day in Florence of a foreign student.

The mini movie, entirely shot in first person, is divided into five parts and represents a sort of game, so that it is possible to choose two different developments.

The movie wants to show how the first day of an Italian language student who arrives in the country of her dreams and doesn't know what to expect: at first, she has to find the school and this could conceal a surprise, then she will meet new friends and maybe receive some invitation to go out.

By the way, she's in Italy to learn Italian, and in the video it is shown her first day at school and her interesting Italian language lesson.

It is possible to see this original video on YouTube (www.youtube.com/view_play_list?p=13E5C0238E287099). For further information about the Italian language school, it is also available the YouTube channel Italian in Italy or the school's official website www.scuolaleonardo.com.

Scuola Leonardo Da Vinci is one of the most important Italian language schools for foreigners in Italy, and organizes Italian courses since 1977. It is present in the most beautiful cities of Italy (Florence, Milan, Rome, Siena), and each year the company welcomes thousands students from 60 different countries in the world.

Scuola Leonardo Da Vinci
Via de' Brunelleschi, 4
50123 Florence (Italy)
Tel. 0039055290305
Fax 0039055290396
press@scuolaleonardo.net
www.scuolaleonardo.com
blog.scuolaleonardo.com

www.youtube.com/view_play_list?p=13E5C0238E287099

You can find this press release here