March 4, 2010 - Phoenix, AZ – CDROM2GO has expanded its line of professional disc publishing equipment to include two of Rimage's newest products: the Professional 3400 Publisher and the Professional 5400N Publisher.

The Professional 3400 is an entry level disc publisher available in three configurations. It is available with two DVD/CD burners, one DVD/CD burner and one Blu-ray burner, or two Blu-ray burners.

An optional Network Software Suite for the Rimage Pro 3400 enables the unit to be accessed by multiple users over a local area network. This range of options gives customers the ability to purchase a machine that is specific to their production needs.

The Professional 5400N Publisher contains additional features for power users which are not found on the 3400. An embedded PC eliminates the need for a separate control center computer. This makes connecting the machine to a network a "plug and play" operation. Network-friendly control software is also included with the 5400N.

Both machines include the new Rimage Everest 400 thermal disc printer. The Everest 400 is a professional quality printer that produces photo-quality results directly on CD and DVD discs. It is designed for use in high-volume environments such as the 3400 and 5400N, both of which have a 150-disc input capacity.

Customers who need an all-in-one disc printer and burner are encouraged to look at the Professional 3400 and 5400N publishers from Rimage, which are available now through CDROM2GO.COM.
