How can companies use Sage 200 to overcome the challenges facing modern business? DMC Software, in association with Sage, hosts a series of seminars that investigate the true potential of Sage 200 to improve organisational efficiency.

Entitled “Work Smarter in 2010 with Sage 200” the DMC Seminars are to take place on 21st and 22nd April in Peterborough and London respectively. These events focus on how the Sage 200 Suite of products can be utilised by businesses to enhance collaboration and productivity across an organisation.

Simon Fovargue, Sage 200 specialist at DMC Software highlights, “Sage 200 allows businesses to work smarter by making the right information available in the right way. Individuals can have their own area to manage tasks relevant to their roles while maintaining the ability to view every other aspect of the data.

“The DMC Software Sage 200 Events are part of series of seminars throughout 2010 that showcase the latest technologies and best practice advice. The DMC Sage 200 events will enable both Sage 200 users and prospective users to visualise how Sage 200 can be utilised to best effect business wide to benefit individuals as well as the organisation as a whole.”

Sage 200 provides a flexible suite of products that enable synergy between otherwise disparate departments, each user works from the same real time information encouraging enhanced productivity and better customer service. Sage 200 provides the tools to co-ordinate an entire business from customer facing departments through to the back office and core activities such as manufacturing. By having a single solution that takes care of everything teams can work together more efficiently and resources can be used to better effect.
