PEPPM Contract Supplies Computer Products to Schools, Libraries, and Government Agencies

Millington, Tennessee. Unistar-Sparco Computers, Inc., an industry leading national IT Solution Provider headquartered in Millington, TN, recently received a catalog bid award from both California and Pennsylvania through a national access contract called PEPPM. PEPPM is the Pennsylvania Education Purchasing Program, the result of a nationally affiliated group of agencies which seeks and awards bids on technology equipment, software and supplies on behalf of schools, agencies and libraries.

With 17 awards in five categories, these contract vehicles allow awarded vendors to sell a large array of general hardware and software products with bid protection.

State acquisition personnel can access the PEPPM's product information from the company's newly available online store (www.sparco.com/peppm) where a wide variety of IT products, along with extended product details and pricing quotes are available.

"We are pleased to now be able to provide products through PEPPM and to continue to be able to give state purchasers a full array of options for their technology needs," said Unistar-Sparco Computers, Inc., President Soo-Tsong Lim. "PEPPM is a very valuable program for school districts and agencies around the country."

Unistar-Sparco Computers, Inc. has been authorized to sell the Eaton UPS power management Products and LaCie storage products to the state of California, while Pennsylvania has purchased Panasonic computers/projector goods in addition to the LaCie storage products. With the launch of the new online store and the recent PEPPM contract award, Unistar-Sparco Computers, Inc. offers a vast selection of hardware and software products to federal, state and local government agencies, schools and universities.
