

Entrepreneurs and Businesses are Banned from Using Social Networking Sites Like MySpace

Date: 11-15-2006 01:35 PM CET

Category: Business, Economy, Finances, Banking & Insurance

Press release from: ThatPRGuy

Myspace says "no" to commercial promotion in profiles and to friends lists on the social networking site, but that ban led to the creation of a site designed for entrepreneurs, businesses, and business opportunity promotion and networking.

Citrus Heights, CA -- BizFriendz.com was created as a resource to help entrepreneurs connect with each other through a social networking community of friends and like-minded people.

"I created BizFriendz as a social network where members receive some excellent tools to make doing business online more effective," explained Rob Clark, founder of the site.

Members of the social networking site for business networking are encouraged to tell others, and are rewarded with commissions when the people they recruit sign up for enhanced services on the site.

Membership is free at www.BizFriendz.com, and the benefits are many. The site offers viral exposure of a business or opportunity, access to a highly targeted network of entrepreneurs, a unique matching system that puts the right people together, and access to help and advice from many experts.

In addition, members can create, view, or search BizFriendz profiles with photos and videos, create a personal home page, use instant messaging, E-mail, view classifieds, forums, and groups, participate in events, maintain a calendar, and earn commissions.

Enhanced benefits enable members to create groups and events for others to participate in online, post to forums, blogs, and classified ads, and create listings of items for sale.

"Creating events for your business ventures may be one of the most powerful features of BizFriends," said Clark. "You can create podcasts, sales events, teleconferences, view special videos, and seminars. You can even sell E-tickets to your events, or provide free tickets. You can invite guests to your events from within the site or outside the site and you are able to track who paid, and who actually attends. You will also have the option to set your event as a featured event within the network so it can be promoted to all members."

The addition of BizFriends to the world of online social networking means people who want to promote their business no longer need to risk getting their profile banned, or use sneaky tactics to get noticed on MySpace. The features on BizFriends are the next evolution in the way people do business on the Internet.

"BizFriendz enables our members to take advantage of what other social networks don't allow, or don't have. We offer personal and business networking, and unique tools for business promotion not found anywhere else. Our community is made up of entrepreneurs and business opportunity seekers, which gives our members a highly qualified place to do business," said Clark.

About BizFriends.com:

Rob Clark is the creator of BizFriends.com, A business social network community of entrepreneurs and people who are looking for a business they can start, or business products and services they may need.

Press Contact:

Rob Clark

916-223-6540

###

Press Contact:
Rob Clark
916-223-6540

About BizFriends.com:

Rob Clark is the creator of BizFriends.com, A business social network community of entrepreneurs and people who are looking for a business they can start, or business products and services they may need.

You can find this press release here