This new report published by MSI Marketing Research for Industry analyses the German, Austrian and Swiss markets for modern fires and fireplaces. The review period gives detailed insight into the years 2002 to 2006, while the forecast period includes the years 2007 to 2011. For all three countries, the report has been segmented by:

- Metal stoves (steel not-encased, steel-encased and cast iron)
- Fireplaces (closed fireplaces, open fireplaces, tiled stoves, heat radiation stoves, air circulation stoves and combinations)
- Inserts (inserts for fireplaces and inserts for tiled stoves)

In Germany, a further segmentation has been carried out by region, by type of work, by type of building, by type of demand, by type of use and by type of fuel. Additional chapters offer an insight into industry structure and the structure of distribution as well as a chapter on the most important companies on the market.
