Rivet Logic and Aarden Ringcroft Recognized as Alfresco Partners of the Year

( EMAILWIRE.COM, December 18, 2006 ) LONDON — Alfresco Software Inc., the first and leading provider of an open source enterprise content management solution, today announced Rivet Logic as US partner of the year and Aarden Ringcroft as European partner of the year.

“This award is recognition for the outstanding work that both Rivet Logic and Aarden Ringcroft have performed in the last year,” said John Powell, CEO, Alfresco Software, Inc. “Their breadth of expertise in delivering training, successful Alfresco Enterprise projects, and supporting our growing community through forum involvement and code contribution is exceptional”.

Rivet Logic and Aarden Ringcroft were recognized for:

- Training – Co-development of training material and, in the case of Rivet Logic, the first US partner to deliver developer and end user training
- Alfresco Enterprise delivery – Major customer implementations
- Alfresco Community Support – Most active partners on Alfresco’s forums
- Code Contribution – Kofax release script contribution (Aarden Ringcroft)

“When people think of open source ECM, Alfresco is the only product they ask for today,” said Louis LaFontisee, Aarden Ringcroft, Ltd. “ We are honoured to receive this award as recognition for our work with Alfresco.”

“Alfresco is fast becoming the default alternative to Documentum or Sharepoint, and we have seen rapid adoption in a variety of sectors including financial services, government, education, and technology.” said Mike Vertal, CEO, Rivet Logic Corporation. “We are grateful for this honor and look forward to continuing to work with Alfresco to deliver superior Enterprise Content Management solutions that not only cost a fraction of what proprietary systems cost, but also provide innovative capabilities not found anywhere else. ”
