With its new Internet portal xStudy.EU, the provider xStudy is the first to position the European higher education sector as one coherent unit in the highly competitive global market, creating the most important and unique global portal for Bachelor and Master programmes throughout Europe.

More than 60,000 study programmes are already listed, making the database the most comprehensive and best of its kind from the very start. Since 1997, xStudy.EU founder Valentin Peter and his highly motivated team have gathered more than 10 years field experience with "studieren.de", Germany's leading Internet portal for study orientation. German universities appreciate the team's professional competence and efficiency in presenting and promoting their study offers with detailed Course Profiles, a successful concept which is now also available on xStudy.EU.

Founded in 2007 by Valentin Peter, the European corporation xStudy SE (Societas Europaea) is headquartered in Munich and markets international study courses from the entire European university system. Valentin Peter is also the initiator of the company's core assets, the consulting portal studieren.de founded in 1997 and the international portal for study orientation xStudy.EU, which went online in May 2010. In the context of restructuring and standardization of the educational landscape in Europe, the company has grown to become the most important study programme information service in the international market.
