The fifth Hyatt Hotel in Germany is another new highlight of Düsseldorf Media harbour. Contemporary and classic in design it is home to 303 rooms and suites. Located in one of two towers at the tip of a peninsula it provides a wonderful view of the harbor, old town and the Rhine.

Design is of upmost importance to the hotel and General Manager, Monique Dekker, was keen to point out how ONEvision enhanced their design vision: "Design plays an essential role in our market positioning strategy, the importance for our branding cannot be understated. The team at at-visions truly understands this importance and has developed its own Displays and a fully customizable interface allowing us to maintain our branding in every detail."

Responsible for the selection process was Feuring Projektmanagement GmbH, Kirchheim, an internationally renowned company with focus on the hotel industry. Their project manager Robert Diepenbrock said: "Our job as a representative of the investor is to select the best possible solution - and this certainly also applies to the price-performance ratio. Especially in high tech industries the newer, younger companies are increasingly offering very remarkable solutions. Just like ONEvision from at-visions, now a very attractive proposition for many of our clients."

Roman Kirisits, Managing Director of at-visions said: "Our team has extensive experience in different areas of the international hotel industry. We try to incorporate this experience into our solutions. Every tender process provides a great opportunity to discuss our ideas and our quite unique approach. Time and again, it is really satisfying when our arguments convince such reputable companies on both sides, investor and operator."
