Press release from: Debt Rescue Central

The leading debt services company Debt Rescue Central LLC has recently released a statement about their company's change of name. The company, which as originally called Debt Zero Central LLC primarily points to the changes that their services has done to their clients as the driving force behind the swift adjustment to their company name.

The company's principals pointed to the detail that the feedback from their clients would often state that not only was the company able to help them from their financial issues by reducing their debts to zero, but Debt Rescue central was actually able to rescue them from the seemingly inevitable financial troubles that they were in.

Executives at Debt Rescue central explained that as more and more clients stated the same sentiments in their testimonials about the debt settlement and debt relief services that they were offering, they realized how their own company's goal should change with these need as well.

The shift to the new name of Debt Rescue Central was made so that it would imply that not only would the company be focused in zeroing the debt (as the name "Debt Zero central" used to do), but a total package which would ensure that their clients would be rescued from all kinds of financial woes that they may be embroiled in.

Of course, the people of Debt Rescue Central assure that the changes that they made are not limited to their name only. They ensure that not only will their clients continue to receive the excellent service that they are accustomed to, but can expect improvements on the way that they would go about their business as well.

Rest assured that the services that the company provides for solving their financial and consumer welfare issues would definitely reflect the name change that they have instituted. The company is confident that with these adjustments that they have made to their name and their functions, they would definitely be worthy of saying that they are Debt Rescue Central.
