Indianapolis, IN— January 10, 2007—Job-Hunt.org (www.job-hunt.org), a leading Internet site providing the most comprehensive listing of useful Internet-accessible job-search resources and services on the Web, has named JobCentral National Labor Exchange (www.jobcentral.com) as the Best General Job Site of the year for 2006. A service of DirectEmployers Association, a nonprofit consortium of leading U.S. corporations, JobCentral.com is the Internet's only cooperative, employer-owned search engine dedicated exclusively to employment.

Cited for its extensive resources, exceptional job search filters and supplementary job listing resources, JobCentral.com has continually outperformed the competition in providing jobseekers with optimal information and contacts best suiting their employment needs.

“We are honored to have been recognized as the Best General Job Site for 2006 by Job-Hunt.org,” stated Bill Warren, Executive Director of DirectEmployers. “This distinction solidifies our efforts to provide job seekers with the largest possible universe of opportunities to find employment. We will continue to improve and broaden our services in the hope of capturing this honor again in 2007.”
