Press release from: iVideoBlast.com

iVideoBlast.com offers a new service to deliver classic TV Shows – like the Beverly Hillbillies - for your video iPod. The new service – www.iVideoBlast.com – went live on December 12, 2005.

"The new video iPod technology is only as good as the content available for it," informs Justin Thorn co-founder of iVideoBlast.com. Co-founder Scott Britner adds, "Video iPod customers are desperate for good quality content so our initial launch has classic TV shows like the Beverly Hillbillies which everyone loves."

The initial iVideoBlast.com library contains classic American video entertainment like 14 episodes of the Beverly Hillbillies including "Jethro Goes To School" where a private school is shocked to learn that their new fifth-grade student is Jethro.

If you own a video iPod be sure to visit www.iVideoBlast.com and fuel your iPod with a library of video classics like the Beverly Hillbillies - and many others - all for just $.99 per TV Show. The iVideoBlast.com library also contains classic Animation and Movies.
