Tampa, FL – February 14, 2007 – Today, the leading independent presidential candidate, Daniel Imperato, announced that he will be addressing the Reform Party State Meeting this Saturday February 17 in Tampa, Florida.

The Reform Party, which last fielded Ralph Nader (2004) and Pat Buchanan (2000) as presidential candidates, is still feeling the financial effects of the two candidates that failed to help build the party and gather any major support.

"The Reform Party has a strong legacy started by Ross Perot, a man who I greatly admire, and has the right idea for the American people. It's time to reform America. It's time for a change. Ross Perot knew it. The Reform Party knows it and America knows it," stated Imperato.

The Reform Party, which was initially founded by Ross Perot, was at one point the largest third party in America.

Perot, who was also a self-made businessman, was able to garner some of the highest popular vote totals in 1992 and 1996, since Theodore Roosevelt did in 1912.

Imperato looks to follow in those footsteps and become America's First Independent/Third Party President.

"While the nomination of the Reform party may be, I am creating a movement to better America," said Imperato. "There is something that many Americans feel but don't know how to express.

That feeling is the need for political change. America has grown tired of the same Democrats and Republicans, politics as usual. I am asking the Reform Party and every American around the world to support me to revive the Reform Party, and reform Revive Amerca."

In addition, the Reform Party will be hosting a dinner on Friday Evening in honor of Imperato.
