(FAYETTEVILLE, N.C.) – Advanced Internet Technologies, Inc. (AIT.com), a 10+ year veteran and Industry Leader in Hosting announces today the signing of a strategic partnership with Websense, Inc. (www.Websense.Com). Through this alliance AIT can now offer first rate security products that monitor home and office networks to its 200,000+ customers. “Our customers are of prime concern,” says AIT’s Chief Network Officer, Daniel P. O’Flaherty, “With this relationship firmly in place, we can now offer a level of control and security not previously available.” AIT’s Chief Marketing Officer, Sean McCoy had this to say, “Over the course of the past year, our customers have been clamoring for assistance and help in minimizing the varying degree of threats their individual networks faced daily. As a qualified partner with Websense, Inc. we can now offer and promote these services directly.”

Most traditional security solutions rely on waiting then reacting when dealing with an inbound threat or attack. The Websense Security Application grants users the ability to manage traffic across all ports and block malicious traffic such as spyware, thus preventing it from launching across a network or on a desktop. The Websense applications are perfect for any home based network and are scalable to function in a corporate network environment.

William Harrison, AIT’s Security Product Manager and architect of this partnership ended with this, “Over the past few months, I worked directly with Websense, Inc. in order to secure a relationship that would address the concerns of our customers and bring about a new line of security products aimed at limiting the issues our customers face daily.”

To learn more about the network security capabilities AIT offers, please call Bill Harrison today at 877.549.2878 for a free consultation and ask about the free 30-day evaluation. You can also visit the following URL: www.ait.com/enterprise.php# form.
