Get the whole picture of the latest innovations from the market leader of SFF PCs

Shuttle Inc., world wide leading maker of small form factor (SFF) PCs and manufacturer of multi form factor solutions today announces its highlights for CeBIT 2007.

Exploring the world's biggest IT trade fair without expensive parking, annoying queuing at check-out counters and nerve-racking overcrowded booths? As visitors will look in vain for Shuttle's booth at CeBIT this year, the Taiwanese manufacturer proudly presents its product line exclusively on the internet.

"Visitors of our European web site now can easily discover the world of Shuttle XPCs in the office or at the desks at home in no rush," explains Tom Seiffert, Head of Marketing & PR, Shuttle Computer Handels GmbH.

Special attention deserve the highlights such as the extremely powerful Shuttle XPC Barebone SD39P2 or Shuttle's tiniest media centre PC, the Shuttle XPC mini X 200M. The Shuttle XPC Barebones SN68G5 and SN68G2 are Shuttle's very first HDMI-ready platforms for AMD AM2 processors. Even the Shuttle XPC Barebones SD32G5 and SD32G2 with Intel Core 2 Duo support or the cubic media centre Shuttle XPC G5 3200M with Windows Vista Home Premium can be found on eu.shuttle.com/SeeIT.

We're looking forward to your visit.
