Allergy information for Patients in six different languages at azelastine.info

MEDA Pharma, headquartered in Solna, Sweden, has established a new informational website for patients concerning allergy therapy with the active ingredient Azelastin (i.e. in Allergodil® akut).

Patients can acquire useful information about allergies -the symptoms, the different options of treatment and helpful information about Azelastin - a wide variety of interesting and helpful information is offered at www.azelastine.info.

Currently the information portal is accessible in English and German with four further language versions (French, Spanish, Italian and Swedish) to be coming soon.

Up-to-date press releases, links to websites from various organisations, associations, and patient groups round off the website. Members of the academic press can access a password-protected site with current press releases.
