Rockland, Maine -- Corporate gift-giving is important, but often challenging and frustrating, because of the time it takes out of an already busy day.

"Shopping for a corporate gift for a boss, manager, secretary, or company executive has always been stressful for the poor person who gets that assignment," explained Spen Carney, founder of GreatStuffAndThenSome.com.

Carney knows how important it is to find a gift that leaves a great impression with the recipient. He created www.GreatStuffAndThenSome.com to make the process simple, inexpensive, convenient, and stress-free.

Finding the right sales incentive or reward carries with it the same challenges. The right incentive can motivate an entire sales team to new levels of accomplishment, but the wrong gift can actually turn them off, according to Carney.

"When you give a corporate gift or sales incentive, you want the reaction to be 'oh wow,' and that can be challenging. The gift baskets and other items on the web site all get the reaction you want with an important gift," he said.

Gift baskets continue to increase in popularity because of the convenience of ordering online, as well as the variety of gift baskets available for people of all ages and interests. GreatStuffAndThenSome.com offers gift baskets uniquely designed for every possible event and occasion. The company also carries a full assortment of other unique gifts as well.

The company offers more than just gift baskets, as the name implies. "Then Some" in the name includes such items as prepared meals, Omaha steaks, Green Mountain coffee, Hickory Farms, salmon, desserts, breakfast foods, appetizers and hors d'oeuvres, kosher gifts and foods, low carb food, flowers and plants, candy and chocolate, soups, baked goods, cheese, Maine lobster and clams, scallops, and caviar.

"The gift basket you choose could contain a variety of popular items such as candy, flowers, popcorn, gourmet items, chocolate, snacks, soap, and even bath and body items. People give them for all the standard holidays, weddings, birthdays, accomplishments, showers, housewarming, get well, as well as for a special romantic expression," said Carney.
