Los Angeles, CA (April 1, 2007)— M. Loring Communications, LLC is expanding at an exponential rate it seems. After recently signing American Idol, Alaina Alexander they announced that internationally acclaimed composer and pianist, Oksana, has signed on for their services as well. Classical piano became an interest to Oksana at the young age of five, and she has now brought her talents to the states, set up shop in Los Angeles, and received irrefutable acclaim. Oksana seamlessly crosses over from classical music to mainstream entertainment, utilizing modern tactics, talent and the beauty of a Siberian goddess.

“We are proud to announce our new business relationship with Oksana. She has accomplished so much already, we look forward to helping her share her talent with the world,” says Mona Loring, President of M. Loring Communications.

Oksana’s global reach has created a wealth of recognition accumulated from exceptional collaborations with other talented artists, breathtaking live performances, and quality merchandise. Since Oksana has a strong presence in environmental and social issues, MLC PR plans to help her expand the reach of her awareness to the masses. Additionally, with the release of her seventh CD, “The Best of Two Worlds,” a passionate collection of original works inspired by the art of Grammy award-winning Jim Warren, MLC PR plans to help Oksana fund noble organizations that help deal with poverty in third world countries.

“Oksana embodies the true essence of the American Dream... passion, drive, desire and success. She really is the total package—looks, heart, brains and personality. I know she is going places,” says Loring.

Oksana has already established a solid fan base that spans the globe-- thanks in part to a strong internet presence that spreads her reach to millions via her state-of-the-art website: www.thepianowoman.com.
