Boreland Lodge Hotel in Fife, Scotland salutes the upcoming Edinburgh Marathon 2007 by offering runners and spectators with group bookings at the lodge. Accommodations at this family-friendly hotel include en suite rooms fit not just for single occupancy but also for three or more occupants. Booking for an affordable room close to the race venue is not that hard as there are a lot of lodging houses such as Boreland Lodge that can be found within the area.

Runners, spectators, and volunteers to the marathon will find this pleasantly rustic hotel a very convenient place to stay as it is just 30 minutes away from Edinburgh. Casual and inviting, each room at Boreland Lodge promises guests a warm and relaxing stay – the perfect place to rest after watching a good race or a day of volunteering.

The Edinburgh Marathon is not just any marathon. It is a race with a cause that benefits several charitable organizations in the UK including Macmillan Cancer Support and Hope for Children. It is also considered as the second largest marathon in the UK.

Now on its fourth year, the Edinburgh Marathon 2007 will take place on May 27 in Edinburgh – with a new route that includes several major tourist attractions such as the Edinburgh Castle, Scotts Monument, Holyrood Palace, and New Parliament Building. For a minimal fee, runners of varying age and background can join the marathon that will start on Princes Street and end on Musselburgh Racecourse. The marathon is also open for volunteers who want to help make the event a success.

Guests at Boreland Lodge Hotel will find its homey ambiance refreshing, with accommodations that speak of tranquility and simplicity. A family-operated lodge hotel in Fife, Boreland is committed to provide personalized service for each and every guest.
