A distance learning MBA or degree could be the lifeline that many people need during the tough global economic downturn. Online degrees offer a flexible and affordable way to study a UK university qualification, whilst still maintaining a full-time career.

Many people choose to study online degrees through RDI - a distance learning provider with Headquarters in Coventry, UK and over 20 years experience.

One distance learning MBA student recently told RDI: “My job was put at risk at the beginning of 2011 and I am now safe, and I think just starting my MBA has proven my ability to my employer.” For more information visit www.rdi.co.uk/.

RDI is the best distance learning hub of management education in the UK. Being in partnership with the premier UK universities, RDI conducts higher education courses including professional development programmes through distance learning. RDI is the ultimate stop for distance learning based management study.
