The all-new Golf By Campus educational series features tips and concepts to improve golfers enjoyment of the game, and each article in the series has been personally prepared and written by one of the SDGA's campus directors.

May 31, 2007 SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. - The world's oldest and largest golf college, the San Diego Golf Academy (SDGA) proudly announces the launch of its new 'Golf By Campus' series of golf tips and instructional articles, which is being published by Tees2Greens.com, one of the industry's premier golf e-newsletters.

The all-new Golf By Campus educational series features tips and concepts to improve golfers enjoyment of the game, and each article in the series has been personally prepared and written by one of the SDGA's campus directors. SDGA hosts campus locations in Phoenix, Honolulu, San Diego, Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Orlando. Fla.

"SDGA provides its students with some of the best game instruction in the world, and we're very excited to partner with Tees2Greens in providing an on-going series of educational tips," says Eric Wilson, director of the SDGA-Myrtle Beach Campus. "Tees2Greens publishes one of the largest weekly golf e-Newsletters in the world, and articles by SDGA campus directors is sure to provide some fresh insight in how to play well and enjoy the game more."

The Tees2Greens Golf Newsletter and Tees2Greens.com feature a circulation exceeding one million potential readers, including core golfers, affluent individuals and baby-boomers. Both the Tees2Greens newsletter and the website feature weekly articles from Randy Smith, one of Golf Digest's Top 50 instructors and Champions Tour professional D. A. Weibring, as well as news from Golf International, Europe's leading golf publication, and AmateurGolf.com which covers amateur tournaments and events nationwide.

"However, SDGA offers far more to golfers than game improvement," adds Wilson, who was recently nominated for the 2006 Horton Smith Award, presented annually by the Professional Golfers' Association (PGA). "We also educate our students to many different aspects of the golf industry - everything from golf operations to accounting, business law to tournament administration and club repair - and we fully prepare them to enter the golf industry."

Founded in 1974, SDGA offers a 16-month program of golf instruction and golf business management on five campus locations in major golf markets - Phoenix, Honolulu, Myrtle Beach, Orlando and San Diego. The SDGA is accredited by the Accrediting Council for Independent Colleges and Schools (ACICS) and by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA), a national advocate and institutional voice for self-regulation of academic quality through accreditation.
