New York 6/5/07— A suspected terrorist cell planned a "chilling" attack to destroy John F. Kennedy International Airport, kill thousands of people and trigger an economic catastrophe by blowing up a jet fuel artery that runs through populous residential neighborhoods, authorities said Saturday.

Three men were arrested, and one was being sought in Trinidad on Saturday. In an indictment charging the four men, one of them is quoted as saying the foiled plot would "cause greater destruction than in the Sept. 11 attacks," destroying the airport, killing several thousand people and destroying parts of Queens, where the line runs underground.

This terrorist plot is the second plot to come out in as many months regarding a large scale terrorist attack on a major US landmark. In April, six men were arrested in conjunction with planning attacks on Fort Dix in New Jersey. The six men were immigrants from Kosovo.

This time, the terrorists came from much closer, our neighbor South America.

However, this attack was not unforeseen. 2008 Presidential Candidate, Daniel Imperato, has long warned that with the amount of money that terrorist organizations are putting into South America, that it would be only a matter of time before they use South America to infiltrate our country and plan another major attack.

In his March 2006 release, "Bush Administration and the South American Triangle Area: Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay," Imperato warned the Administration about the presence of terrorists in South America, attacking America.

"In the past, I have called on our administration and George W. Bush to pay keen attention to our South American neighbors. Recent events in Argentina have brought me to this press release. In my past years, I have made recommendations relating to strengthening relations with South America, specifically after the attacks on 9/11," stated Imperato.

With terrorism moving to a global stage, terrorist organizations, such as Hamas and Hezbollah, have started to expand their influence globally.

"This situation has now grown almost out of hand. There are reports pertaining to terrorist organizations such as Hezbollah and Hamas, searching for additional funds in South America in areas, such as Argentina. This brings tremendous heartache for me as an individual who has spent a lot of time in the region. Most importantly, it could bring devastating results from the support of these organizations from our neighboring countries, and long term repercussions with these types of organizations getting closer to our back door," explained Imperato.

Imperato called on the nations of the region and their intelligence agencies to work together to address the terrorist situation.

"I call on our administration and President George W. Bush to move rapidly with relations to South America, and to work closely with their government and intelligence agencies pertaining to security and security identification and infrastructure systems pertaining to banking money transfer and social security identification programs," expressed Imperato.

The infiltration of South America by terrorist groups has alarmed Imperato, who has constantly made recommendations to curb these potential problems.

"This disturbing information pertaining to hundreds of millions of dollars being extracted from the South American region and being put in the hands of terrorist organizations, has been going on for many years. Once again, I stand up to reiterate the fact that I personally made recommendations to our administration in the past regarding these potential problems that are now existing, that could have been curbed," said Imperato.

"I hope and pray that our administration doesn't take this lightly, and that there is a grave endangerment that may be confronting us in South America. Moreover, the activity between the South American Triangle region, and furthering the relations with the new regimes in Central America are heightening my personal concern about our neighbor," expressed Imperato.

Imperato concluded his statement with the following remarks, "We also must not forget our Caribbean islands and must recognize immediately that relationships with this part of the world are urgent. We must call on our Central and South American- US citizens, and our partners in the region to beef up security, utilize diplomacy, and engage in peaceful relationships with our neighbors."

When asked about the recent JFK Terror Plot, Imperato commented as follows:

"Our leadership has been missing the channel of drug money through Amsterdam, which has become a haven the future terrorists. The terrorists that were plotting the JFK bombings, and the future terrorists that will come in through Guyana, Trinidad, and Tobago, are all being transported though the country of Amsterdam."

"The United States needs to get with Amsterdam to beef up security. Amsterdam, which has legalized marijuana, has been known for its easy access to many of the world's illegal drugs. Remember that our newborn enemies with their socialistic movement have been aiding and abetting these types of terrorists with drug money. Therefore, mark my words, through the investigations, the US government will find the trail leading back to Amsterdam."

Imperato also pointed out that many countries in the European Union were against eliminating the poppy crop, chiefly used to make heroine, in Afghanistan.

"This is also the reason why the EU are against the eradication of the poppy drug in Afghanistan, because the drug is being used in Amsterdam. Drug money sticks together and plays together. You can be sure that the Bin Laden poppy fields have their representatives in Amsterdam and have sent them to South America and the Caribbean."

Imperato concluded his interview with the following remarks, "I've called on at least 33 million Americans to look at the facts of the past, compare notes and read what I have to say today. I can tell you where it comes from, 30 years of hard work and global experience. We need an administration that has this type of understanding. We need an administration that is not war hungry and trigger happy. I say peace, not war, and I stand up to root out terrorism around the world."
