FIFE, SCOTLAND □ The biggest and one of the most prestigious local superbike championship series in the world is back. Starting on June 30 up to July 1, 2007, the Knockhill Racing Circuit in Scotland will be filled once more with bike racing fans as it plays host to the seventh round of the British Superbike Championship 2007.

Sponsored by Bennetts - UK's leading motorcycle insurance provider - the British Superbike Championship this year will see reigning champion, Ryuichi Kiyonari of Japan defending his title against top motorbike racers such as Gregorio Lavilla of Spain and Jonathan Rea and Leon Haslam of Great Britain.

Round 5 saw Kiyonari as the winning rider with 190 points, followed by Lavilla who earned 179 points. Rea and Haslam came in third and fourth place, respectively. The fifth round of the race was held at Snetterton Circuit in Norfolk, Eastern England while the sixth round will be held at Mondello Park in Ireland on June 15 to 17.

This year's BSB, as the championship race is fondly called, will also feature stunt shows on the first day of the seventh round. The BoldDog Freestyle Stunt Team, a promising group of professional motocross riders in Britain, will be showcasing their amazing tricks on freestyle motocross at the Knockhill Racing Circuit in Fife on June 30.

For inquiries on the Knockhill Racing Circuit and ticketing, interested parties can log on to www.knockhill.com.

Fans of motocross and the BSB can also have the chance to go camping near the Knockhill site on the night of June 30. For those still looking for a place to stay during the race can check out accommodations at Boreland Lodge Hotel. This charming hotel in Fife is only minutes away from the Knockhill Racing Circuit. Boreland Lodge provides comfortable rooms at affordable prices.
