Press release from: Hamburg English TOEIC Test Centre

2004, Hamburg English started down the road of online testing specifically aimed at international companies wishing to measure employee and job applicant English language ability. Upon completion of a test, an ability report is generated and sent by email to a chosen email address within just a few seconds. The English ability tests are just a part of an online empire created by Hamburg English, which additionally covers department need analysis and TOEIC (The Test of English for International Communications) estimation and preparation.

The main structure of the test routines make it an easy task for Hamburg English to modify any particular test engine towards the needs, industry and products of a company. This has the additional benefit that the test engine can also be structured for non-English testing for instance; product knowledge. New test engines are in the final stage of development to cover verbal description based upon pictures and email and letter writing in response to randomly presented communications.

As an official TOEIC test centre, Hamburg English can offer people and companies the chance to qualify their English ability by gaining an internationally recognised English language ability certificate.

Hamburg English was founded in 2002 and became one of the largest TOEFL Test centres in Germany in 2004. In 2005, Hamburg English became an official TOEIC Test Centre based in Hamburg. The company offers in-house English and French classes to Hamburg companies with the ability to specialise in many engineering and business fields. Through a UK partnership, Hamburg English additionally offers specialist training in the UK in the fields of medical, financial and professional English.
