Zelfi's new mobile game, named TTX, is the clone of a classic falling block puzzle but yields more entertaining fun by a lot of great features.

In TTX colored blocks of a different shape are falling down. The player has to complete lines with blocks and if one line is done the row will disappear. So the gaps in a line of blocks have to be closed. The blocks may be rotated and moved sideways to fit them for a gap.

TTX is a clone of the famous falling block game but in contrast to the classic version TTX has some great features. Different game play modes guarantee more fun and good challenges: in addition to the default version "Endless Game" the player gets to know some new versions of the good known game in "Time Attack" and "Campaign". By choosing level to start and difficulty too, mobile game players have a lot of fun for a long time by alternation.

This electrifying mobile game is financed by adverts and may be downloaded for free at www.zelfi.com/en/mobile-games/for-free/ttx-free/.
