

Scottish Open Source Awards 2007 Welcomes Sun Microsystems as Main Sponsor

Date: 08-20-2007 02:06 PM CET

Category: IT, New Media & Software

Press release from: Scottish Open Source Awards 2007

The Scottish Open Source Awards (SCOSA) officially announces that Sun Microsystems are the main sponsors for the 2007 event.

Greg Soper, for SCOSA 2007, said, “We're delighted. This is the inaugural year of the awards and to be supported by a company with the reach and depth of Sun Microsystems is fantastic. We look forward to a mutually rewarding association.”

The Scottish Open Source Awards opened on the 1st August 2007 for nominations. The awards are open to business, government, education, not-for-profit, charities and students, who contribute to or use Open Source Software or services. Nominations are invited for any Open Source project developed in Scotland and or by a Scot or team of Scots outside of Scotland. Details on how to make a nomination are available at: www.scottishopensourceawards.co.uk

---ENDS---

Greg Soper,
Managing Director
SalesAgility.com Ltd
Denny Business Centre,
Carronbank Crescent,
Denny,
FK6 6GA
Tel.: 01324 889108
greg.soper@salesagility.com
www.scottishopensourceawards.co.uk

SCOSA 2007

The Scottish Open Source Awards 2007 (SCOSA 2007), are being organised by SalesAgility.com Ltd, a Scottish Open Source Company. The object of the awards is to recognise and to reward those individuals and organisations in Scotland that are contributing to the growth of Open Source; to educate individuals and organisations about the benefits of using Open Source technologies; and to inspire students and young people about the creative potential of Open Source.

You can find this press release here