Orlando, FL – ZYTO Corp. (Pink Sheets: ZYTC) has added the newest weight loss product from XYMOGEN Inc. to ZYTO technology used by health care practitioners to help their patients obtain better health.

“We congratulate XYMOGEN for the introduction of fitfood (tm). We know that healthcare practitioners will be pleased with this new product they can use in conjunction with ZYTO technology as they work to help people who want to lose weight and get fit,” said Dr. Vaughn R. Cook, OMD, president and founder of Zyto Corp.

XYMOGEN and ZYTO have a strategic marketing alliance which enables XYMOGEN to sell ZYTO bio-technology to healthcare practitioners who use XYMOGEN formulas for their patients or clients.

XYMOGEN is a leading provider of research-based, high-quality, nutraceuticals and functional foods exclusively to licensed healthcare professionals, according to Brian Blackburn, C.E.O. and XYMOGEN co-founder.

“Losing weight is not just about weighing less. It’s about maintaining and building lean muscle mass as fat melts away, supporting immune health, optimizing gastrointestinal health and function, promoting cardiovascular wellness, and supporting the proper conversion of food into energy,” explained Blackburn.

XYMOGEN’s newest product, fitfood, is designed to be used along with a personalized food and nutritional supplement program. Healthcare practitioners might suggest fitfood for breakfast and lunch, along with fruit and perhaps vegetables, then “regular” food for dinner, Blended with water or other liquid recommended by the practitioner, fitfood may be used as a partial or complete meal replacement, according to Blackburn.
