September is here and schools have once again opened their doors to the throngs of children. With the beginning of classes comes the question of what to do in the hours of leisure time. Thundercats Sports offers a great solution to this with their after school sports and activities programs.

Thundercat Sports is an organization in Massachusetts which offers the local children a safe and healthy way to spend their leisure time. The organization runs a variety of sport and activity programs such as summer camps, after school & weekend youth sport clinics and birthday parties. Included in these programs is a wide selection of sports that kids can play in a safe environment. Sports do not only generate health benefits for its participants, they also build character. Leadership qualities, teamwork, fair play and competition can all be useful later on in life.

Thundercat Sports is praised by kids and their parents for offering these great activities. Parents are thrilled that their kids are playing like they did when they were younger; not just sitting in front of a computer screen, or worse still, getting involved in some form of illegal activity.

Thundercat Sports wanted to offer a fun, healthy activity that educates kids. They desired a recognizable logo that exudes these qualities to its viewers. LogoBee, a logo design and web design company, was asked to create this brand for them. The graphic design professionals created the logo of a roaring panther. This animal is appealing to youth since it is a powerful and brave animal. The courageous, sleek and healthy animal embodies the important character and health traits that Thundercat Sports believes in so fiercely.

The news reports warn us about that the children of America are becoming increasingly unhealthy. The news is also hammering home the fact that street gang violence, underage drinking and drug use are major problems in urban areas across the country. These are problems that need to be solved quickly because the children are the future; Thundercat Sports is doing its part to help by offering a productive means of spending spare time to kids.
