The next MyControl Speedway official race is now scheduled for Thursday 25th October, with qualifying starting at 12PM PDT, with the race beginning around 1:15PM. There's a lot going on this time, and it'll be a great race to see.

Team Pixel Props didn't succeed in their drive to oust Team RedLine Racing from the number one spot they've been occupying since the start of the official races last time out, so they're now pulling out all the stops. Peldon Cordeaux has been attacking the track and his car in order to shave time off of his personal best, and it has paid off. He has taken the lap record with a time of 0:16.377. He looks more likely than ever to topple the mighty Yetrates Bates.

Now, to bolster their push, they've recruited new talent in Suzy Cuddihy, who is already in the high ranks of lap times, but inexperienced in race conditions. How will she fare? With a new driver and a new lap record, Pixel Props look in a better position than ever to topple the mighty Yetrates Bates.

Of course, Yetrates will be the toughest of nuts to crack, as she remains undefeated going into the race. Fellow RedLine driver Kandy Tomorrow has also been working on her car to squeeze everything she can out of it, so RedLine are raising the pressure too. A tight contest is assured.

We were expecting to see a new team make a fresh rivalry against the titans of MyControl, a new team led by extraxxy Yoshikawa, but it seems their challenge has fallen at the first hurdle as they will likely now not make it, and it seems unlikely their time as a team will never get into full swing.

The proceedings will be a little different this time around, as the official race is joined by its first support race: a one-make race for the newly released MR Blitz. It is a preview of what to expect in the planned Blitz Cup series, and in this one-off race anyone can turn up and compete in a temporary MR Blitz, to get a feel for the car and the competition. This will give anyone the chance to compete with no disadvantages from their vehicle. Just turn up to race! The Blitz race will start at 11:30AM PDT, and those who wish to enter can try out the Blitz in free practice beforehand with the open formula drivers.

The races at MyControl seem to get more exciting each time, and this is set to be no exception. It's not a race you want to miss!
