October 22nd, HongKong: Sourcingmap.com - The world's first Factory-Direct Wholesale Online Superstore, has announced latest key chain digital photo frames for the coming Christmas.

As digital camera and cell phone with high-pixel camera get popular, people has been used to keeping their photos by all kinds of storage devices such as PC HDD, semiconductor storage and CD-R. Even more, the photos that are printed out are now mostly from digital camera or cell phone with digital camera. The traditional photo frame and photo album will cost much money to print the photos out, and it will take a lot of time. As a result, the DPF, a product that can keep and review these digital photos, comes into being.

When digital photo frames first came out, they were expensive, low-resolution and limited to how many photos they could display. Today, they are cost-effective, high-resolution and have a myriad of storage options for large quantities of pictures. Sourcingmap.com has always been trying their best in digital photo frame field to offer their customers high quality products with lowest prices. The new products launched today has attracted lots of customers' attention, which mainly include the following ones:
