Classic Rancilio Silvia Espresso Maker Now Available With Espresso Pod Conversion Kit

Marlboro, NJ – February 13, 2008. There are a plethora of espresso makers on the market for use in homes, but few of them have the kind of long-term popularity and longevity of the Rancilio Silvia. The Rancilio Silvia – known to devotees as Miss Silvia – was released in 2006 and quickly found a fan base around the world. 1stinCoffee.com has been overwhelmed by the demand for Miss Silvia and is pleased and proud to be able to offer their customers this fine machine.

To make the Rancilio Silvia even more appealing, 1stinCoffee.com can now also offer its customers an accessory to the espresso machine which makes it possible to use espresso coffee pods. Coffee pods are proving immensely popular for home coffee and espresso making, and it's nice to have the flexibility to choose to use espresso pods in the Rancilio Silvia.

The stainless steel Rancilio Silvia espresso machine is a powerful, well-designed, quality espresso maker. Time after time, people who own a Rancilio rave about the quality of the espresso they can brew, and say that they've been spoiled so much by Miss Silvia, that they will never be happy with espresso or cappuccino from coffee shops ever again. Espresso makers that inspire this kind of enthusiasm and loyalty are few and far between, and 1stinCoffee.com is proud of being one of the few companies to stock the Rancilio Silvia, making it available, along with their exclusive guide to using Miss Silvia, to the American consumer.
