DALLAS/HOUSTON – Gardere Wynne Sewell LLP is proud to announce that six attorneys from the firm’s Dallas and Houston offices have been honored among the top business litigators in the country in the premier edition of Super Lawyers Corporate Counsel Edition.

Earning recognition in the legal guide for business executives are Geoffrey Bracken and William Matthews of Houston and Craig Florence, Joe Harrison, Robert Hoffman and Michael Lowenberg of the Dallas office of Gardere.

“We have built a reputation as a firm that companies turn to when they are faced with important legal matters,” says Gardere Managing Partner Stephen D. Good. “To have six of our partners recognized among the top business litigators in the country just strengthens our belief that our clients receive the best representation possible.”

The premiere issue of Super Lawyers Corporate Counsel Edition will be delivered in April to more than 25,000 CEOs and in-house counsel at America’s leading companies. The publication highlights the top business litigators around the country who previously earned Super Lawyers honors in their home states.

Texas Super Lawyer selections are based on peer nominations made by more than 70,000 attorneys from across the state, with the final selections made by a blue-ribbon panel of lawyers chosen by the Texas Super Lawyers editors. Fewer than 5 percent of the attorneys nominated are chosen for this honor each year.
