Companies and professionals that are active in the Ethanol Industry, whether it is in production, R&D, financial services, chemicals, storage and transportation or otherwise, can now get a 15% introductory discount if they subscribe to the Ethanol Statistics – Monthly Market Review before June 1st.

The Monthly Market Review (or MMR) provides professionals in the ethanol industry with the latest industry news, conveniently sorted by region; comprehensive price analyses of both ethanol and its most important underlying commodities; monthly and bi-monthly market commentary by the major ethanol industry associations eBIO, the RFA and UNICA; and an in-depth analysis of one issue, development or major opportunity in the ethanol industry.

The analysis section in March focused on the potential of cellulosic ethanol between 2008 and 2020. As of June, the MMR will become a monthly publication. For the next 7 issues the planned topics are:

- June: Plant construction, process equipment and engineering
- July: Feedstock, trade and risk management
- August: Downstream infrastructure (Storage, Blending, Gas stations, E85)
- September: Investing in Brazil
- October: Carbon credits and secondary revenue streams
- November: Enzymes, yeast and fermentation
- December: Outlook to 2009

As an introduction to the MMR, Ethanol Statistics now offers a 15% discount if companies subscribe before June 1st. There is no risk in subscribing to the Ethanol Statistics – Monthly Market Review, as a full pro-rata refund will be made if a subscription is discontinued in the first year. To receive this special introductory discount of 25%, simply subscribe before June 1st.
