Press release from: Buergerwelle Germany \(incorporated society\)

I had an interview on occasion of the siting of a great number of mobile phone masts in Western Denmark. On January 22, the newspaper Jydske Vestkysten brought 3 fullpage articles about this. Christoffer Johansen was also cited. He repeats his mantra that masts are definitely not dangerous, and now it is also proven that cellular phones do not cause cancer. Here he refers to the latest study in British Medical Journal. All we are waiting for now, is studies about mobile phones and children that will show that they are harmless. What else can one do but to shrug one's shoulders?
