Puszta goulash instead of alphabet soup

Plunet spices up BusinessManager with Hungarian MemoQ TM

Berlin/Budapest, May 15th 2008 – Senior management at Plunet has really hit the spot again with the new integration of the translation memory tool "MemoQ" from Kilgray. Against this background, Bastian Enners, Sales and Marketing Director at Plunet, describes the clear advantages of the new Plunet integration: "Some of our customers already use MemoQ quite intensively, and its status of being the "young Turk" of the industry is not entirely unjustified. The tool offers a clear alternative to established suppliers, and it is also intuitive, inexpensive and extremely stable to run. It fits perfectly in the Plunet system landscape." MemoQ statistics are automatically uploaded into Plunet BusinessManager and linked to performance units and prices. Automatic price calculations and invoice statements are thus available at the press of a button. The high-end MemoQ interface is available now as an upgrade for all editions of the Plunet BusinessManager. Kilgray also welcomes the future cooperation between the two software companies. "The industry is currently undergoing a period of great change. However, for a company which is clever and looks ahead, this represents a huge opportunity for innovative software solutions and partnerships. MemoQ and Plunet BusinessManager are both top products. By combining the two we have been able to set new standards in terms of automation, workflow optimization and therefore user-friendliness", explains Istvan Lengyel, CEO of Kilgray.
