DN Verifi, a system for listing unprofessional employees, suppliers and companies for small and mid-sized companies, was released at a launch ceremony in Bangalore. DN Verifi enables companies to maintain online lists of employees and suppliers that fail to honour Standard Operating Procedures, employment contracts or terms and conditions of supply. A simple concept, DN Verifi is however, very powerful acting as a deterrent capable of stopping things like resignations without adequate notice, resignation before fair time following training and non-delivery of goods and services.

Facing high attrition rates; staff who leave without serving adequate notice; staff who leave before a reasonable time after training; candidates that do not turn up for interviews; candidates with a false CV or references; staff that have breached your Standard Operating Procedures?

Facing poor suppliers; suppliers who deliver substandard goods or services; suppliers who do not deliver on time; suppliers who fail to provide after-sales support; suppliers that have breached their Service Level Agreements?

DN Verifi has the ideal solution. Simple yet effective. Takes minutes to implement.

“DN Verifi helped me within a day of signing up. A senior programmer quit unwilling to serve his contractual notice period. Rather than face inclusion in my DN Verifi list he agreed to serve full notice and help in handing over his responsibilities as per our standard operating procedure. That’s what I call instant ROI!”, said the Director of an early DN Verifi customer.

DN Verifi enables companies to maintain online lists (DN Hire and DN Contract) of unprofessional employees, candidates, suppliers and potential suppliers. Companies have the option to make any entry private to themselves or publicly accessible within DN Verifi’s global lists. “The lists are designed to be used as a reference guide to others and will to act as a deterrent to those considering breaking their commitments”.

Supporting documents must be maintained for all entries and in order to ensure the system is fair, DN Verifi offer those listed the right to appeal. DN Verifi will independently verify supporting documents and if the appealed entry is found to be unjustified, will remove all entries made by the relevant company and add it a DN Join or DN Supply list. If the appealed entry is justified it will become highlighted, thereby discouraging unreasonable appeals.

DN Verifi retains the right to randomly select entries to verify their inclusion in a list.

DN Verifi is an on-demand software (SaaS) system taking only minutes to set up with no software or hardware needed and zero maintenance. The service is offered at only Rs 1,000 (USD 25.00) per month and expects clients to achieve an almost instant ROI.
