Press release from: Assmann Electronic GmbH

DIGITUS® extends its HDD housing range by a high-performance Network Attached Storage (NAS) housing. Thanks to the ease of operation, back-up of personal and business data is now child's play. The NAS can be connected directly to the computer by USB, or offers fast and convenient access to data by means of a Gigabit connection. Copying of data is started at the simple touch of a button.

The housing is equipped with two SATA connections, which are installed in removable hard disk frames. The integrated RAID system 0 and 1 enables combination into one drive. A built-in FTP and Samba Server provide further convenience and enable access to the data via FTP or network.

The unit supports CIFS, FAT32, ext2 and ext3 file systems, as well as P2P BitTorrent, FTP/HTTP Download Manager. The Media and iTunes servers are simple to configure over the Web. The easiest way to make multimedia contents or data available on the network.

The recommended retail price for the hard disk housing DN-7024 is €189,90.
