Pageflakes (www.pageflakes.com), a personalized startpage, today announces the presentation of 3 new modules to the service: Flickr Module where users can setup their favorite pictures and a translation module that lets you translate texts from English into German and vice versa. Also, the brand new Netflix Module is now available where users can login to their Netflix account straight from Pageflakes.

No more unnecessary browsing and having to open 10 different pages. Pageflakes combines your daily internet needs on one page. Your personalized page. Setup your free account, get news feeds, create multiple pages – all within seconds and without any programming needs. It's a simple drag and drop, just like you know it from your desktop.
