Aug 25, 2008, Cambridge Maryland. Based perfectly in the middle of the beautiful Eastern Shore of Maryland, Precious Paws Pet Care has set out to provide a much needed alternative to boarding. Offering pet sitting for a full range of pets, overnight and daytime in-home pet care, pet taxi service for veterinary services and pet supplies, pet bathing, pet medication administering, and a recently added service of daytime boarding, Precious Paws is truly on it's way to realizing it's goal as a full service pet care business.

Precious Paws Pet Care has been providing pet care services to residents on the Eastern Shore since November 2007, and currently enjoys clients from Annapolis to Cambridge. Their digital home is at preciouspawspetcare.com

"in these busy times having a good pet sitter that you can rely on to care for your furry family member whenever needed can bring much peace of mind." Says Susan Richardson, Owner of Precious Paws Pet Care. "We pride ourselves on making your pet feel safe and loved, and on making sure they have everything they need while their owners are away."

Pet owners once had limited care options for their animals when away from home. Not any more. Today, they can turn to in-home professionals for all their pet sitting needs. Unlike kennels, pet sitters travel to people's homes to feed and water, play with and walk the pets. For pet owners, in-home pet sitting provides a unique alternative to boarding facilities — or relying on family or neighbors to check on pets. Pet sitters come to the home daily and animals are able to keep their regular routines for meals, walks, medication and one-on-one care and attention.

The first advantage to hiring a pet sitter is that the pet owner can travel without having to pay an expensive kennel service to watch his or her pets. Another advantage is that pets are able to remain in their own homes, keeping them relaxed and content in a familiar environment. Owners have reported that their pets experience less stress and adjust better to their owners' absence when the pets remain in their normal environment.

"Precious Paws was a great find for us!" Exclaims Carrie B. "Knowing that my puppy is taken care of when we're out of the house really gives my husband and I peace of mind. Susan is reliable and definitely loves pets. We love getting updates on how our little guy is doing while we're out. Precious Paws is always there when we need them and are extremely flexible with last minute plans. We are so happy we found them!"

With 2 income couples becoming the norm in our society, Precious Paws delivers a version of day care that somehow time forgot. Having recently embarked on a local search engine enhancement program with Search4ItLocal.com, the pet lovers at Precious Paws Pet Care find themselves in great demand. So if you have plans to go away for the week or the weekend, or simply desire a trusted pet lover to look in on your new pet while you are away making the boss happy, you might just want to Precious Paws was started out of my great love of animals, the desire to provide a unique alternative to boarding for those who need assistance in caring for their family pets. When I decided to start my own business, pet sitting was a natural choice for me.
