Noble, OK – August 29, 2008 --Watersweb Shops, an ecommerce solutions company, adds remote hosting account backups to their Shop Kit Plus to provide additional data security to work at home and small business owners.

“We’re excited about our new remote backup service,” said Michelle Waters, Owner of parent company Watersweb Solutions LLC. “Remote backups give our customers the added data protection they need to protect their most important business tool – and at an affordable price.”

The remote backup service automatically backs up the business owner’s website, on a daily basis, to a separate location. The customer data is safe, even if the server crashes.

Watersweb hosting packages currently come with daily, weekly and monthly, onsite backups that are stored in a separate hard drive on the server. Remote backups offer an additional layer of security for business owners who would prefer not to perform their own website backups.
