

Centigrade to attend Systems 2008

Date: 09-02-2008 03:10 PM CET

Category: IT, New Media & Software

Press release from: Centigrade GmbH

Looking back at a successful CeBIT 2008, Centigrade will be attending the Systems 2008 trade show. The professional business-to-business exhibition concentrates on ICT solutions and examines the latest developments in the fields of business processes. Systems 2008 will take place October 21-24 in Munich, Germany.

Centigrade will present its broad spectrum of user interface design and development services. Visitors will be able to learn more about Centigrade's state-of-the-art user-centered design approaches and experience Centigrade's brand new Windows Vista stock icon collection, which will be revealed to a public audience for the first time ever. Centigrade can be found in hall A2, booth 516.

About Centigrade:

Based in Germany, Centigrade is committed to excellence in usability engineering, user interface design and development services, supporting clients in creating software products of high usability and architectural elegance. With its creative and agile team of usability engineers, designers and software architects, Centigrade is able to offer individual service options, ranging from requirements gathering and usability evaluations through exclusive visual designs to fully-integrated Java GUI components and Look and Feels.

Press Contact:

Nicole Niehoff
Corporate Communications
Phone +49 681 959 31 - 10
Fax +49 681 959 31 - 19
nicole.niehoff@centigrade.de

Thomas Immich
Co-Founder and Managing Director
Phone +49 681 959 31 - 11
thomas.immich@centigrade.de

You can find this press release here