

Gommold, the trade platform for virtual goods and accounts, launched

Date: 09-25-2008 03:16 PM CET

Category: IT, New Media & Software

Press release from: Gommold GmbH

Trading accounts and currencies of online games the easy way... the Gommold way!

From now on Gommold.com is THE platform for trading accounts and virtual currencies from online games! Here we offer you a new service, where you can trade your unused online game accounts or virtual currencies with other players in no time!

The market for online games such as World of Warcraft, Age of Conan or Lord of the Rings Online is booming. There are always more of these so-called MMO(RP)Gs published, from which the interested player must choose one that he wishes to play. Since these games are very time consuming, only few can afford to play several. That's why most of the time will be invested in the chosen online game.

If the game becomes boring, you'll pull to the next one, where you have to start from scratch. The virtual money and the account from the old game stay there without usage and will be deleted by the game operator after a while.

This is where Gommold intervenes. Here, the players can trade their virtual funds or accounts with each other and gain many benefits from that. On the one hand, they can trade their account for another one within the same game, to see another side of it and regain the fun of playing this online game. Then again they can trade accounts or currencies between different games to avoid the starting problems in a new game (little money...).

Since these games are played across the world, some even in the national language, Gommold enables the trade between different nations! „Here it is possible for an English player to list his World of Warcraft account in English and for a German player to see same account in german. This way, the players stay in their familiar language and there is only little communication needed to trade between different nations“ notes Thomas Staehle, founder and managing director of the Gommold GmbH. In the initial phase there is an English (www.Gommold.com) and a German version (www.Gommold.de) of Gommold. Within a short time we will add more European languages, so that many European players can trade their virtual currencies or accounts in their own language!

„With Gommold we offer the players the chance to trade their virtual goods and accounts in no time to regain the fun of playing their games“ comments Siegbert Mueller, founder and managing director of the Gommold GmbH.

The Gommold GmbH is a young German company which was founded in January 2008 and focuses on the trade of virtual goods and accounts in the context of online games or MMO (RP) Gs . The company offers at www.gommold.com and www.gommold.de a trade platform on which players of such games can trade their virtual goods and accounts.

Siegbert Mueller
mueller@gommold.com

GOMMOLD GmbH
Nobelstraße 15
D-70569 Stuttgart
www.gommold.com
phone +49 711 / 50 888 141 0
fax +49 711 / 50 888 141 9

You can find this press release here