Press release from: Assmann Electronic GmbH

DIGITUS® introduces itself with the 10" wall cabinet system which is attractive and easy to install. The stable housing for wall and standing installation consisting of 1.1mm thick sheet metal is provided with an inspection door consisting of a single pane of safety glass in order to prevent the contents from being used improperly.

Two 10" locking rails at the front, cable guide with wiper rail from below to the top and the completely grounded housing round off the comfortable equipment. Delivery includes a set of installation screws.

The attractive and easy to install housing fits comfortably into the office area because of the neutral, light grey (RAL 7035) colour.

The system offers an alternative optional solution for each requirement. Modules can be added or removed without great effort. Later conversion also works quickly without any complications. DIGITUS® therefore offers the user the greatest flexibility with a system.

Editors receive a test sample by request from the press contact stated below.
