Cockpit4u recently attended as an exhibitor and key sponsor the Aviation Education & Training Summit 2008 held at Beijing, China on 4 and 5 December 2008.

The conference brought together top level executives of leading Chinese airlines, members of the civil aviation authority and other stakeholders of the aviation sector in China.

Besides being an excellent networking opportunity, the conference also discussed key issues affecting the industry in China like regulations, training issues and operations etc.

Cockpit4u was represented by Mr. Stefan Heuss as a key speaker and Mr. Dennis Pilz, both from the Cockpit4u management team.

“The summit has been very successful for us considering our main objective has been fulfilled. We exhibited at the AET in China primarily to make a presence, establish contacts within the industry and have an exchange with key players to develop business relations. We were able to give a presentation and showcase our services, meet with potential clients and leading names in the industry.” says Stefan Heuss.
