

AutoAnything Arms Its Customers For the Battle at the Gas Pump

Date: 03-16-2006 10:19 AM CET

Category: Tourism, Cars, Traffic

Press release from: Net Business International

AutoAnything, the nation's premier car, truck and SUV accessories discount retailer, has deployed an extensive research guide that highlights products, gives tips and debunks the myths to arm their customers with the knowledge to save gas and win the battle at the pump.

Recognizing the skyrocketing cost of gasoline, AutoAnything's crack team of product experts, researchers, copywriters, developers and designers assembled one of the most extensive and easy-to-use guides to improving fuel economy. Access to the Gas Mileage Research Guide is available free at our website.

"We offer an abundance of affordable products that save gas by improving engine efficiency and reducing wind drag," says Selwyn Klein, president of AutoAnything. "Even before gas prices shot up, these products paid for themselves and now they're more important than ever."

Klein tasked his troops to build a research center that not only showcased AutoAnything's gas-saving products, but also provided an arsenal of useful information, certain to come in handy when you're trying to squeeze out a few extra miles to the gallon.

"We felt it was our duty to present our customers with quality information about the best and field-tested items, while simultaneously giving them valuable fuel-saving tips gleaned from our own experience, customer feedback, and other expert sources," says Klein.

Visit AutoAnything's Gas Mileage Research Guide and you'll discover how a lifetime-reusable performance air filter for as little as $25 helps your engine work with greater efficiency. Or, how adding an aerodynamic tonneau cover to your truck bed can save you 10% or more at the pump. Further, you'll find tips revealing how long you should let your engine idle before turning it off, how proper tire inflation keeps the needle closer to "F", and how to consolidate trips to make the most of every ounce of gasoline. Lastly, the AutoAnything Gas Mileage Guide takes on some of the modern and classic gas-saving myths, from using magnets to "Feng-Shui" your tank, to the magic potion fuel additives that allege significant gains.

To order any of AutoAnything's gas saving products or browse its selection of over 2,000,000 auto accessories all backed by their 1-year lower price guarantee, visit autoanything.netbizint.com.au/index.html

For More Information Contact:

Net Business International

autoanything.netbizint.com.au/index.html

You can find this press release here