Manifesting 2.0 – after their great success in the year 2008, the couple from Heidelberg, Germany, set their priorities on optimizing the opportunities and on enhancing the performance. Now it is all ready and the successful portal starts its second turn: Unique as it is, in German already five coaches lead every participant to his personal success. Everyone who wants to change his or her life in a successful direction, should take a look at the idea behind the portal. It is the 4-pillar-system, granting every user as much support as he needs – every day there is an e-mail with an exercise and it is up to every user at which time he or she receives this e-mail. Every day, there is the opportunity to take part in a live online chat in a protected web area – so every user can solve his problems and blockades every day during the 30 days and can thus be even faster with his success. A professional bulletin board system offers exchange among the users. In the case of very private or intimate questions, there is an internal e-mail form which grants personal and private answers within 24 hours.

„It is just so fantastic to see the opportunities within the portal“ says Alexander Nastasi, one of the makers of the portal. And he knows what he is talking about – in Great Britain and the USA this kind of communication is common practice already, says the 38 year old author of four books.

It was a matter that was brought to the company Seminar Service Nastasi in the workshops they organized for trainers and coaches, that people wished for further coaching and mentoring, but could not afford it. That is why the way of an online portal is just so great – and the success of it concedes a point to them. Those users who have the will to change and get up the nerve to really do it, have always been generously rewarded with new jobs, sinking weight indicators and financial break throughs.

Online coaching, what can I expect ? It is the ideal utilizing of technical communication like e-mail, chat, bulletin board and telephone conferences, internal areas which can only be entered by the users and conditioned material to get integrated in every one's personal life so that positive feelings add to positive thinking and every one's reality changes in a way they want, however it may look like. There is no point in what they want to change – it is only important that they want to change something and stick to the point. The website portal offers the techniques, the help and the coaching for every one's success.

That is creating of reality for everyone – in a fast moving time one needs fast and effective techniques. These days hardly anyone would have the time to keep sitting cross-legged for 25 years to find the one true essence of his life – the online courses adapt into one's life quite easily and they offer fast and lasting effects by simple means that can be used by the participants every day.

By means of the 30 days mental coaching the participants learn to take their matters into their own hands using the universal law of attraction. They do it by using modern means of communication like live chat, followup e-mail systems delivering the daily exercises and personal live telephone conferences.

Whatever the participants want to reach – if only they can imagine it and if they manage to create an intensive positive feeling for their aims, then they will manage to reach their aims – with the help of the online mental coaching of Julia and Alexander Nastasi and all the other professional coaches on the portal.
