Gold Coast, Australia, 29 April 2009 — DreamSpring, a Symbian smartphone specialist, announced the S60 version of its powerful contact manager DreamConnect for Nokia smartphone users.

Following the success of DreamConnect on the UIQ and EPOC platforms, DreamSpring today announced DreamConnect for S60, the second S60 product announcement since the Smartphone Show in London.

DreamConnect is designed especially for those who have a large number of contacts and need to access contact details frequently. It runs on Symbian S60 smartphones including Nokia, Samsung, LG and forthcoming Sony Ericsson smartphones.

The S60 version of DreamConnect will inherit many of the ground-breaking technologies from its UIQ and Psion predecessors. It features a clear display of information in a business card format, showing more contact information in less space but with greater clarity.

DreamConnect for S60 will offer revolutionary hierarchical categories, giving users the ability to capture their mental map of relationships visually.

Its powerful search tools provide various unique ways of locating contacts quickly and easily. It includes search history that helps further reduce time to access the desired contacts.

DreamConnect will be the first contact manager on the S60 platform to offer users the ability to undo and redo changes made to contact details.

More information on DreamConnect is available at www.dreamspring.com/products/dreamconnect-for-s60/dreamco.... Users can sign up to be informed of DreamConnect for S60's development on DreamSpring's website at www.dreamspring.com/.

On the announcement of DreamConnect for S60, Managing Director Malcolm Lithgow says: "The success of DreamConnect lies in its user friendliness and innovative features. In porting DreamConnect across to S60, we are being careful to adhere to the S60 UI without compromising ease of use. We are working hard to create a world class contact manager on the S60 platform that truly benefits users as well as providing a foundation that we can build on."

DreamConnect provides Symbian smartphone users an efficient and effortless way of managing their contacts. DreamConnect is expected to be available in the third quarter of 2009.
